Berlin, May 30. N. S.

THE Swedish Forces begin to be in Motion in Pomerania, and we are told here, that they have already mark'd out two Camps, by the Disposition of which it appears their Design are to return into Poland. Those Troops have receiv'd several small Reinforcements which have been transported at different times out of Swedens; and yesterday we receiv'd Advice, that they had landed five thousand Men at once from Stralsund; but tho' our Letters from Dresden make mention of the same thing, yet this Account is not entirely credited.

Hanover, June 5. N. S. We are in great hopes here that the Disputes with the Chapter of Hildesheim will be very soon accommodated. Monsieur de Wolfenbourg is gone again from hence this Morning, to endeavour to bring that Matter to a speedy Conclusion. This is what will be very agreeable to this Court, who are desirous to put such an end to that troublesome Affair, as may be consistent with their Honour, and effectually conduce to the Security of the Protestant Religion according to the ancient Treaties and Agreements in that behalf. His Electoral Highness being willing to hasten the Election of a new Emperor as soon as possible, has given his Consent to the shortning the Term at first proposed: So that instead of the 20th of August, the Day formerly fixed, the 20th of July is by a common Agreement the time appointed for the Election. Our Letters from Breslaw of the 27th of the last Month import, that they had been advised by an Express from their Frontiers, that the Saxon Regiment of Egstatt having been appointed a Convoy to part of the King of Poland's Baggage, the famous Partisan Smiegielski attacked that Regiment on the 26th, and having killed some of the Officers, and several Soldiers, he seiz'd on part of the Baggage, and seem'd to have a Design upon the King himself; but his Majesty arriving at Breslaw the 26th at Night, continued his Journey the next Morning without any Interruption towards Cracow. Monsieur Baluze, a French Emissary in the Czar of Muscovy's Court, does all he can to bring the two Northern Crowns to an Accommodation through the Mediation of the King his Master; but the Conditions proposed being by no means agreeable to the King of Sweden, it is not doubted but that his Majesty will reject them.

Brussels, June 8. N. S. They write from Courtray, that six Battalions were arrived there from the Confederate Army, and were to remain encamped near that Place for the Security of the Navigation on the Lys, and to observe the motions of the Garrison of Ipres. Letters of the 5th from Paris advise, that the late Elector of Bavaria was upon his return to Compeigne, at which Place he is suddenly expected. These Letters add, that the Duke of Berwick was set out towards Dauphine, where he is to take upon him the Command of the French Army in that Province. All things continue quiet on this side; and it appearing, that the Body of Troops which the French assembled near Charleroy, were design'd only for the security of some of their Convoys, Kerr's Regiment of British Dragoons is directed to halt at Mechlin 'till further Orders. On the 2d Instant the Garrison of Douay marched out in order to join the Grand Army; and they write from Ghent, that it is expected that the Allies will speedily repass the Scarpe, and encamp between Bethune and Aire; which makes it conjectured that their Intentions are to lay Siege to St. Omer. Of this the Inhabitants of that Place seem very apprehensive, and have for that reason laid the adjacent Country under Water. They have likewise raised some Forts near Arques, as also on the side leading towards Boulogne and Calais, and have added several other new Works in other Places for their better Security.

Hague, June 9. N. S. The States General having receiv'd Advice, that the Town of Elsenor in the Isle of Zeeland is infected with the Plague, they have thereupon thought fit to put a stop to the Squadron at Amsterdam designed for the North, which will not be permitted to Sail 'till they have receiv'd farther Orders from the Regency. In the mean time the States of Holland are to consider whether it will not be proper to suspend for the present the usual Communication with that Place. The King of Prussia has been employ'd since his Arrival in receiving the Complements of the Regency and the Foreign Ministers, who are all of 'em admitted to particular Audiences, among the rest his Excellency my Lord Raby had yesterday a long Audience of his Majesty, who went this Afternoon to Honslaerdyck, where he proposeth to reside a few Days. The Commissioners appointed to adjust the Matters in Dispute betwixt his Majesty and the Prince of Nassau, having not hitherto been able to make any Progress in that Affair, the Prince is speedily expected here from the Army, and it is hoped his Presence will remove all Difficulties, and facilitate an Accommodation. Yesterday the States-General represented to the Ministers of the Potentates Interested in the Preservation of the Neutrality in the Empire, how necessary it was for the Troops design'd for that Service to March without any further delay to the Place appointed for their Rendezvous, and desired 'em to signify as much to their respective Principals. They write from Paris, that the Troops in Arragon have not been able to make any of the Marches that had been concerted, for want of the Sums of Mony necessary for that Service. For this reason, as well as on several other Accounts, the Duke of Vendome is grown very much dissatisfied, and it is said he has desired to be recall'd. The Dauphin applies himself with much Assiduity to Publick Affairs, and is daily in Conference with some of the Ministers. Some Disputes having lately arisen between the Bishop of Luçon and some other Prelates, and the Cardinal de Noailles Archbishop of Paris, the King upon examining into that Affair has ordered those Prelates
